Veronika Zapana S. / La Paz Government - through Supreme Decree 3174 - implements a free medical certificate issued by the Ministry of Health, which can be lowered from the institution's website. This document revokes the certificate issued by the country's medical schools. Galens argues that this provision has a legal vacuum. Health certificates are free from today, said Deputy Minister Alvaro Terrazas, explaining that this decision was made by the government too Supreme Decree No 3174, issued on Wednesday. He explained that with this decision, a certificate issued by a medical college worth 30 Bolivia lacks legitimacy from now on. He argued that the only one that is valid from now on is the one issued by the Ministry of Health. It is reported that this document can be purchased through the Ministry of Health's website, which is available via www.minsalud.gob.bo link, then clicked on a free medical certificate and can be printed. The authority explained that this provision deburocratizes and demeritizes that service. To purchase this certificate before, people had to go to a medical college or some pharmacies, now they just have to have access to the computer, the Internet, download the document and it's done, he added, and reiterated that there is free people's money no longer edid, traveling from medical school leaders. It assured that that decision guaranteed access to the health service, since neither transit nor any other authority could charge for that document. He reiterated that patients should only pay for counseling. The doctor should not charge a fee for filling, he said, asserting that if there are complaints about it, then they can file their complaint with the health control authority or ministry. For his part, the president of the Medical College of La Paz, Luis Larrea, criticized the provision as he assured him that there is a legal vacuum because you don't know who issues the certificate, whether that doctor is certified or has a specialty. Larrea was individually agreed with the president of the National College of Medicine, Hannibal Cruz, and assured that everyone will now be able to issue a medical certificate and create and stress that a health certificate is a safety document. Larrea noted that the collegial body declared itself in a state of emergency and would meet to plan a withdrawal decree for mobilization.
